Being on the campaign trail has been incredibly insightful. I've had the privilege of speaking to Washingtonians across the state and learning more about what matters most to them. I've met folks from all walks of life, but there's something they have in common — they want a leader who prioritizes people over politics and will fight to keep their communities safe.

That's exactly why I entered this race. I have decades of experience in public service, from the beginning of my career serving as a JAG Corps attorney in the U.S. Army to my time as the U.S. Attorney of Western Washington. I'm fully prepared to do what it takes to build a safer Washington where everyone, no matter the color of their skin, where they live, or who they love, can thrive.

The best part is that this vision isn't just mine — it's ours. We're all fighting for the same future, and I am grateful that folks like you are in this race with me, especially since it's my first time running for election!

As your next Attorney General, I'll fight climate change, stand up for abortion access in our state, crack down on gun violence, and do everything in my power to uplift people and families. But to get there, we need to consistently hit our goals.

So, I'm personally asking you to pitch in \$10 — or whatever makes sense for your budget — ahead of our August fundraising deadline tonight.
